Whenever the democrats have the poorest chance of success they crow the loudest.

The harvest for the toy pistol will soon be at hand. It slew two hundred boys last Fourth of July.

Idaho will soon be a second Utah. Mormonism coupled with polygamy is spreading with rapidity in that territory.

Judge Foraker, the republican nominee for governor of Ohio, and Judge Hoadley, the democratic nominee, live in the same election precinct in Cincinnati.

With all the boastful spirit of the democrats so far as the tariff is concerned, when they draw their national platform next year, they will not have the courage to pronounce for free trade. They will do as they always do, "hedge."

Queen Victoria is bound to do honor to the name of John Brown, her late body servant. She will erect four monuments to him, and will do all she can to make his name as undying, as far as granite and brass will do the work, as that of the Prince Consort.

It is said that the nomination of Judge Hoadley, by the democrats, is a straw which points in favor of Tilden for 1884. The democracy may yet be compelled to carry Tilden during that campaign. He will be a load, and they never can land him at the white house.

It has been said that when grain gamblers begin to fail, it is a favorable indication that the day of making corners is well-nigh passed. The sooner such men as McGeoch are pushed to the wall the sooner will the market come to a sure footing and cease to be the prey of the speculators who do nothing but bet on the rise or fall in prices of a given commodity, in which they do not deal themselves and of which they neither know nor care. "Demand and supply are nothing to them so long as they may drive the price up or down by combination or other artificial methods. It is to be hoped that the operation of squeezing such men out will go on until legitmate business shall again have an opportunity to assert itself."

A GOOD WORD FOR THE PRESIDENT.

The last number of Harper's Weekly contains an editorial which will astonish the constant readers of that paper. Mr. George William Curtis, its editor, has been a chronic growler for a number of years. Very little has been done by the republican party which he has commended. While he claims to be a republican he has been so exceedingly straight as to lean backwards, so that his criticism and grambling have been a help to the democrats rather than a benefit to the republicans. But lately he has been better tempered and more just and discreet, and has unstinted praise for President Arthur. Here is what Mr. Curtis says of the president:

An administration which began amid doubts and grave apprehensions has gradually obtained the regard and trust of the country. The president is a strong party man, and the interests of his party are dear to him. It must be pleasant for him, therefore, to know that at least his administration has not weakened the hold of his party upon public confidence. His course, indeed, has illustrated the truth of the notable saying of President Hayes, that he serves his party best who serves his country most. It is a truth which, however abstractly obvious, administrative officers find very hard to put into practice. But they who resolutely do it have their reward. While the professional politicians sneer, the good sense of the people applauds, and the president himself must see that precisely in fast and as far as he disregards the wishes of party hucksters he commends his administration to an honorable place in history.

Thus, the man who was counted but a ward poltician and a professional wire-puller, is now set down as a model president, and gaining the trust and confidence of the country. The president is certainly doing much to earn such praise. While thoroughly republican he is thoroughly just in his administration, so that he does not sacrifice any interest of the country, nor cripple any branch of the service, for the benefit of the party. "Each day" says one, "he is building a record on which the next campaign must be fought. The country has had its last republican congress prior to November, 1884. The president now represents the party, and is responsible in a pre-eminent degree for its future. He can put success within the sure reach of his party or he can render democratic victory a foregone conclusion." So far as the president is concerned, he is doing very much for the republican party next year. A sound administration will give the party a great beverage when the battle comes in 1884.

THE NEW POSTMASTER.

There was a good deal of surprise created in the city this morning when a dispatch was read in the Milwaukee Sentinel that ex State Senator Hamilton Richardson had been appointed postmaster at this city in place of Mr. Patterson whose second term had expired on the 22d of last February. Mr. Patterson was renominated by the president on the motion of Mr. Williams before the congressional term of the latter had expired, but the subject of his confirmation was not taken up before congress adjourned on the fourth of March. There seemed to be grounds for belief that under all the circumstances Mr. Patterson could not be confirmed, and in the meantime others began the work of canvassing for another appointment. A large number of the soldier element signed a petition for the appointment of Major F. F. Stevens, who had done faithful service during the war; and others went quietly at work for the appointment of Mr. Richardson

It was said that assurances were received from Senators Cameron and Sawyer, that no action would be taken in regard to the appointment of a postmaster until congress convened next December, and then, should Mr. Patterson fail of confirmation, a new appointment would be made. This being given as the course that would be taken by the senators, the settlement of the question by the nomination of Mr. Richardson created much surprise, and especially a disappointment among those who had no sympathy whatever with the republican bolt last fall. For the sake of peace they hoped that if a change was made that some one would be appointed who did not represent the extreme of either faction of the party, so that what might be done would be done in direct interest of the republican party, and harmony and good feelings thereby secured. But it is claimed by Mr. Richardson's friends that the senator had recognized one faction by the appointment of Mr. Williams to the registry of the land office at Watertown, Dakota, that a number of others of that faction had been recognized by reappointment to office, and that it was no more than simple justice to give the opposite faction one office.

The Gazette hoped that there would nothing occur that would reopen the breach which was made last fall, and which unfortunately defeated Mr. Williams. Speaking in the interest of harmony and in the interest of a party without a faction, it probably would have been more in accord with republican sentiment to have appointed some one who had not been identified as a prominent leader with either faction. But we have the assurance that Mr. Richardson will give the people the best possible postal services, and he makes the promise that he will manage the office in a manner that will challenge criticism.

There are a good many in Janesville who will deeply regret that Mr. Patterson's appointment did not receive confirmation. The office has been wisely managed during the two terms he served as postmaster, and he will leave the position with the best wishes of the people.

ABOUT CHURCH ATTENDANCE.

In the July number of the North American Review there is a symposium on church attendance, the attack on the churches being made by "A Non-Church Goer," whom we suspect is Mr. Ingersoll. The recklessness with which he discusses that question and the rashness of his manner in attacking the church, very plainly, to us, point to him as the author of the article. He holds the grounds that there is only a very small proportion of respectable and intelligent people who are regular attendants upon religious services on Sunday, and he also maintains that that proportion is diminishing year by year. As an explanation of this decrease in attendance upon religious worship, he says that the people do not like to be fed on the dry leaves of an antiquated theology in which the sap of life has ceased to flow; and also that the church cramps the brains of its ministers until it is only the intellectual light-weights that seek its service. The mediocrities of the theological seminarites go to the pulpit while the strong minds and active brains find employment in other fields of labor.

The position of "A Non-Church Goer" is answered by three eminent divines. The Rev. Dr. Ward throws in his article some statistics that should convince "A Non-Church Goer," that the truth is not in him. He makes the bold statement that church attendance is decreasing; but in 1800 there were some 365,000 Evangelical communicants in this country, which was seven per cent. of the population. In 1850 there were 3,529,000 communicants, which was fifteen per cent of the population. Twenty years later there were 6,673,000 communicants not including Catholics, being seventeen per cent of the population of 39,500,000. In 1880 the communicants had risen to a little over 10,000,000, being a little over twenty per cent of the population of 50,000,000. Dr. Ward thinks the proportion of church-goers is increasing so rapidly that "A Non-Church Goer" will soon be compelled to hide himself away or emigrate to escape the danger of being converted.

Dr. Ward makes answer to "A Non-Church Goer" that the church does not attract to it only men and women who are mediocrities. The ripest scholars of the age are firm believers in the church and are regular communicants. Emperor William and Prince Bismarck belong to the orthodox church, and Dana and LeConte, men in science, who have established reputations as wide as both hemispheres, are regular attendants upon divine worship, and in biology, Professor Gray, the stoutest Darwinian of them all, is a devout christian. Young and Newcomb, who have done more for astronomy than any other two men of the age, are faithful members of the christian church. When it comes to tally names with the followers of "A Non-Church Goer," the brightest list will be that which gives the names of those who are strict believers in the christian faith.

The conclusion established by facts is that church attendance is increasing in a greater proportion than the population of the country, and that among the firm believers in orthodox religion are some of the ripest scholars and the most brilliant minds, and the deepest thinkers of the time.

BEAUTY AND BURGLARY.

Arrest of the Daughter of a Bay State Family of Wealth, Because She Burgled.

The Hathaway Horror--The Doctor's Wife Tells the Whole Fearful Story.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 23.—Mrs. Maria Davis, a handsome and well-connected woman, was arrested at Derby yesterday, charged with being implicated in the recent burglaries in the Naugatuck valley a week ago. The postoffice at Bristol was entered, the safe broken open, and $1,000 in money and stamps stolen. Two weeks ago a store in Essex was burglarized and $6,000 in money and goods taken, and last Thursday night four masked men entered the works of the Derby lumber company, bound and gagged the night-watchman, and broke open their safe. All these burglaries showed that experts were at work and all were remarkable for the daring of the robbers. A man named Davis was arrested Thursday on suspicion of being concerned in the Derby case. Letters and memoranda found upon him directed the attention of the police to his wife, and to-day the sheriff and a deputy went to her house. They knocked, and Mrs. Davis appeared at the window. On being told that they were officers, she ordered them to leave, threatening to shoot them if they did not. The deputy sheriff attempted to force the door, but two quickly fired revolver shots, both of which came unpleasantly near, caused him to abandon the work. Assistance was summoned, and while Mrs. Davis was directing her attention to the men in front another party gained entrance at a rear window. As they ascended the stairs she heard them, and closed and locked the door, when an attempt was made to break it. She fired several shots through the panels, one of which wounded Constable James Geary in the leg. This seemed to exhaust her ammunition, and entrance being gained, the woman was secured after a struggle, handcuffed and taken to jail. The night watchman of the Derby Lumber company is confident that she is the person who assisted to bind and gag him, her voice being familiar. According to his story she was apparently the leader of the gang. She was at the time dressed in men's clothing. The others appealed to her for orders, which she gave with the decision of a veteran commander. It was she who held the revolver to the watchman's head and threatened to blow his brains out if he uttered a word. Davis intimates that his wife has led him into crime, and that she has planned all the robberies in which he has taken part. As Davis is the recognized leader of the gang, Mrs. Davis is the actual head. Mrs. Davis is about 27 years of age, and fairly good looking. She is a member of a wealthy Massachusetts family, and eloped from a boarding-school about eight years ago with Davis, who represented to her that he was a rich southerner. As a matter of fact he had only been released a few months from prison, after serving out a term for larceny. Learning that the officials were after him for some newly committed crime, he and his wife fled to the west, and for a time they were in Marietta, O., where Davis ran a sample-room, and later they went to Chicago, where they lived for several years. Davis, who was living under an assumed name, ran a billiard saloon. After leaving Chicago they wandered about the west and south, working the confidence game. Finally they turned up in Waterbury, Conn. Davis was then drinking heavily, but Mrs. Davis passed as a persecuted Christian, and was prominent in the class-meetings of the Methodist church. Finally she, too, took to drink, and gradually drifted into evil habits. She retained, however, her refined tates, and it is supposed she indulged in burglary that she might accumulate money enough to move to some strange place, and there live in aristocratic ease. In the room where she was arrested was a small book-case filled with well-selected books, which showed marks of frequent handling, and on a table an opened copy of "Lucile" lay face downward, where she had evidently placed it to take up her revolver. The proof against her is strong.

THE PHILADELPHIA ABORTIONIST.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—A faded little woman in a cheap calico dress stepped into the office of the chief of police yesterday, while Dr. Isaac Hathaway was in jail, denying all knowledge of the little skeletons found in the cellar of the house he occupied. The woman, his wife, made a complete statement of all she knew to the chief. She told of the doctor's unlawful transactions, and gave the names of many patients, and it is understood that some of these patients will be summoned to testify. Said an officer: "We are now going for the living evidence and don't care whom we strike." The woman told a terrible story. Children were born and quickly disposed of. She said the doctor would pick up the body (they would be born dead) as if it was an old bucket or something of that kind and toss it down the cellar steps. Large and ferocious hounds were in the cellar, and you could hear them gnawing and tearing the flesh from the little bones. The brutes were allowed to feast on more than one human body, and they seemed to relish the meal. Some of the small children were placed in a red-hot stove and destroyed. While the flesh was burning there would be a powerful and sickening stench for a time, but the doctor did not appear to mind it. Hathaway, with great cunning, made numerous entries to this effect: "May, 1882, woman in Camden, $5." Such, of course, would be difficult for detectives to run out, as they were unknown to Hathaway's alleged wife, who now repudiates his name and calls herself Annie Emery or Elmer. It is known that many of the patients were too much prostrated after Hathaway had operated on them to leave his house, and that they were nursed by Mrs. Hathaway, as she was then known, until they were able to depart. She reiterated yesterday the statement that there were more little skeletons in the cellar of the Fifth street house than had been found. The efforts of the police are now directed to finding other evidence corroborative of the woman's story for use in case there are doubts concerning the invalidity of her marriage with Hathaway.

Mrs. Hathaway made the startling announcement that her husband had burned hundreds of infants, the results of abortions performed by him. She said he burned the bodies instead of burying them, as by the former method all evidence of his crime was thus destroyed. He wished to burn the twins taken from his wife, but the woman was not quite hardened enough to see her own flesh and blood burned before her eyes, and finally induced her husband to bury the bodies in the yard of the house in which they were living.

The account book of the "doctor" for the years 1877, 1878, 1879, 1880 and 1881, was found in a trunk yesterday. It contained the names of over 200 females who had patronized him during that time. Their addresses are also in the book, Broad, Queen, Wooster and Lombard streets, Germantown avenue, and the names of several other streets appear frequently throughout the book, while Millville, N. J., Churchill, Pa., and other points are occasionally mentioned. The book shows that one woman received $50 worth of cough syrup. His rates for practising his murderous vocation ranged from $5 to $25. About four months ago, when he resided on Rising Sun lane, it is said a street car conductor visited his place in company with a beautiful young girl, whose life had been wrecked by the man she was with. She made several other visits, and when the doctor had accomplished one of his numerous crimes the girl ceased going there.

WASHINGTON MC LEAN.

He Objects to Being Interviewed, but Expresses Some Strong Views.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Washington McLean was met by a reporter at the Fifth Avenue hotel. A gentleman came forward, just as Mr. McLean was about to talk, and pressed into his hand a summons and complaint in a libel suit.

"This is not for me," said Mr. McLean. "This is for my son, John R. McLean."

The summons server intimated that he would do as well. Then Mr. McLean let off his pyrotechnics, and intimated that the summons server could go to a place 3,000 degrees in the shade, before a cent could be recovered. The server imaged that he had sat down on the Fourth of July, and withdrew in one time and sixteen motions.

Under the circumstances the subsequent interview was not as full as it might have been. Upon being questioned as to the cause of the summons, Mr. McLean said that it was something in connection with theatrical matters. He was evidently riled, and when questioned as to the political outlook, he said:

"I am not in politics and am not in the newspaper business. I severed my connection with my newspaper thirteen years ago. My son, John R., has full charge. He is thirty-four years of age and understands his business."

"Who will be the Democratic nominee in 1884?"

Mr. McLean then proceeded to consign all politics to the uttermost recesses of the unknown Ingersollia. He characterized politicians as the scum of the earth, and said that he would not believe a politician under oath. He went further. He said that they were a set of scoundrels, who went about town having themselves interviewed.

"Half of the out-of-town politicians," he continued, "come to New York merely for the purpose of being interviewed and making themselves solid with their constituents at home."

"But who will be the nominee of the Democrats?"

"I have taken no interest in politics since 1868, when we met in this same house. That was the last convention that I attended. I was a Pendleton man at that time, but we were out-generaled by 'Old Tilden.'"

"You call him 'Old Tilden.' Then your opinion of Tilden is not high?"

"Am I being interviewed? If I am I want to protest, and I will close the meeting right here. I wonder that a man can't talk confidentially with newspaper men without having his opinions sent broadcast over the country."

"Do you think that Mr. Tilden could win?"

"I think that with Mr. Tilden at the head of the ticket the Democrats would sweep the country like a blizzard."

"How would any other man do?"

"I must decline to answer any further questions. I do not know about politics or politicians, and I won't say anything more."

DELUGE AND DEATH.

Twenty Persons Drowned in the Nebraska Flood.

News from the Inundated Country Ominous of Evil.

The Missouri Cyclone---Two Persons Killed and Fifteen or Twenty Injured.

OMAHA, Neb., June 23.—W. C. Starkey, editor of The Pawnee Republican, arrived here yesterday on the first train out of Pawnee county since the flood, which has inundated that county since last Saturday, and he brings the following particulars of the drowning of several persons, together with other news: The whole southern country was flooded by the rising of the Nemaha river, caused by a heavy and extensive rain-storm. John Berg's family, living near Cincinnati, Pawnee county, were all drowned except himself. At 6 o'clock on Sunday evening the flood compelled them to leave their house in a small boat for the neighboring hills. Berg put his wife and four children—ranging in age from 18 months to 11 years—in the boat and sent a hired man with them to cross the south fork of the Nemaha river, the understanding being that Berg was to remain behind and the boat return for him. When about two-thirds across the stream the boat was carried against some trees and upset. The mother and four children were drowned. The man who was with them caught a limb of a tree and clung there until midnight, when he was rescued. All the bodies except that of the baby have been recovered, and the funeral took place yesterday. Berg has been completely prostrated since the fatal occurrence. At Baker's ford, seven miles above Cincinnati, an old man named Aker and his wife were drowned while trying to escape from their submerged house. In the same vicinity a Bohemian family of ten persons undertook to reach a place of safety, and seven were drowned. The names are unknown. One of the women was saved by tying herself to a tree, where she remained for eighteen hours. When rescued she was nearly dead, and it was with great difficulty that she was revived. It is reported that two men were also drowned in Long Branch creek, near Table Rock. This shows sixteen persons drowned in Pawnee county; besides, previous reports give accounts of the drowning of four or five more in other localities in southern and southeastern Nebraska. Considerable damage to livestock is reported, more particularly among hogs. Crops are injured to some extent, while a vast quantity of corn in crib is thoroughly soaked and ruined. The damage to crops, buildings, household goods, live stock, and railroads is immense, amounting to many hundreds of thousands of dollars. The flood has now subsided, and order is being brought out of chaos.

ST. LOUIS AND THE FLOOD.

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—The coming flood and the flood that is already here are the chief topics at this point at present. A feature of the present flood which is somewhat remarkable is the evenness with which the rise has taken place. Seven inches every twenty-four hours has been the score for the past few days, and yesterday the advance upon the first floor of the levee warehouses is going on quietly but surely, and the promised additional foot will cover the sidewalk for a mile on each side of the bridge. At present the submerged district in front of the business city extends from Biddle on the north to Olive on the south, and communication among the business houses here is carried on by means of teams, skiffs, and such other facilities as are afforded by back-door interchanges of sentiment and commodity. On the wharf-boat of the Belle of Memphis, Capt. J. H. McKee stated that on the way up from Cairo he saw a great deal of devastation and destruction. Farm after farm was found under water, great stretches of cultivated land covered with ripening crops of wheat and corn being submerged to a depth of from one to six inches. As yet few have been obliged to desert their homes, but the threatened total loss of crops is bound to prove a terrible blow to the people. The wheat is almost certain to be a total loss, as its subjection, after the soaking of the kind it is now getting, to the hot rays of the sun scalds it. The corn can stand such treatment better, but if the flood lasts much longer it, too, will suffer severely. Capt. J. W. Shea, of the Emma Etheridge, said: "The river is now one-tenth of a foot higher than it was in 1858, and, as it is likely to go a foot higher, this promises to be one of the biggest of modern floods." One of the horrors of the flood was revealed this morning by a gentleman who was one of the passengers on the Charles P. Chouteau. The boat, with its freight of joyous passengers, had reached Walnut grove, where a cemetery is on the river bank, among whose graves the encroaching waters have been making sad havoc of late. The excursionists were not aware of the fact that half a dozen teams and twice as many men busy at work on the place were rescuing the buried dead from watery disturbance of the last sleep, and a great shock was administered them when a wave from the paddle-wheel broke away a mass from the bank and half a dozen coffins began bobbing about on the surface of the river. As the steamer started off a large oak tree was suddenly undermined and fell in front of its bow, proving for some moments a serious obstacle to the boat's progress. The excursionists were glad to get away from such ghoulish surroundings, and until the flood is over Walnut grove will hardly prove a pleasant stopping place for picnicers. The most cheerful news gathered yesterday morning was that supplied by a telegram from Hermann, Mo., reporting that the river had risen only a foot during the night. This, together with other news of a similar nature, means that the river will be at a stand at this point by today, always provided that no disastrous storm looms up in the meanwhile.

An anxious night was spent by the residents of East St. Louis, especially by that portion between Cahokia creek and the river. The situation has not changed much since yesterday evening, and those who expressed the opinion then that it would be impossible to save the town are now just as confident that the greatest danger is passed, and that, unless a heavy rain falls before the river recedes, East St. Louis is in no danger. Mayor Winton abandoned all hopes, but yesterday laughed at his fear and said: "The town is perfectly safe." The large gang of men employed by the city are busily engaged at work strengthening weak points in the various embankments, and now have water under control. The point from which the most danger is anticipated is in the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy embankment, near the gas-house, which became so weak that the authorities prohibited all persons from walking in its vicinity. The railroad companies worked diligently piling sacks of clay and car-loads of rock at the weak points yesterday morning, and all are hopeful of preventing the threatened break. The small dike between the large slough and Cahokia creek, at the Ohio & Mississippi round-house, became thoroughly soaked near the round-house this morning, but the efforts of Mr. Shears and his gang of men in building a fortification prevented the overflow at this point. A break at either of those points would be most disastrous to the whole city, as the waters would flow through direct from the river and inundate the whole town. Bowman's dike has been considerably strengthened during the last twenty-four hours, and can now stand nearly another foot rise. The water in the slough is now several inches higher than its old bank, and is held by the new embankments built Thursday. The tracks of the Ohio & Mississippi, Chicago & Alton, and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy through the slough are under several inches of water, and can not be used. The yards of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Ohio & Mississippi are under four feet of water. A stream nearly one hundred feet in width forced its way from the slough through the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy yards, emptying into the river, which considerably relieves the slough by drawing a large volume of the water from the weak spots in Bowman's dike and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy embankment. The small sand dike protecting the Douglas school and the two hundred houses between it and the river is on a level with the water, and is likely to be carried away to-morrow. The water from the river, which has been steadily blowing in through a large pipe near the Vandalia freight depot, has inundated the whole district between the Douglas school and Bowman's dike, and in a few hours will be on a level with the slough. The whole island, containing about five hundred houses, is now under six feet of water, with the exception of about fifty houses, which are on a level with the flood of 1844. South of the bridge the small embankments gave way last evening, and placed the residents there under four feet of water. The Willows has sustained about all the damage high water can inflict, unless the second stories of the houses are invaded, which will necessitate a rise of nearly two more feet. The only real danger to the city now is from rain, which will wash away the new embankments and allow the water to escape, causing wholesale destruction. The situation at Brooklyn is about the same as reported yesterday, only several more families have abandoned their homes for safer quarters. A report came from Venice that the Madison dike gave way at dusk. The Madison dike protects the southwest part of Madison county. If the report that it was broken proves true 5,000 acres of farming land will be inundated by morning. The Indianapolis & St. Louis railway tracks, which prove quite a barrier to the river, protecting a good part of East St. Louis, were broken at 7 o'clock, and the river is pouring through the break and adding to the danger of the situation.

JEFFERSON CITY.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 23.—The rise in the Missouri river at this point is the highest known since the memorable one of 1844. It is now nearly twenty-five feet above low-water mark and still rising. The damage in the city arises mainly from back water in Wear's creek, which runs through the western part of the city. All the gardens lying along it for a mile from the river are under water, and in many of the houses the water is half way up the first floor. Cedar City, a town of about three hundred inhabitants, situated nearly opposite here, is partly under water. Nearly all the farms along the lowlands are inundated.

KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 23.—The Missouri river fell two inches here yesterday, and the Kansas river fell five inches. Harlem is still submerged. There is no change in railroad connections. The Council Bluffs train for St. Joseph and Council Bluffs got out all right last night. A dispatch to the mayor from Sioux City says the river raised four inches, and is rising at the rate of one inch per hour at Yankton.

THE MISSOURI CYCLONE.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., June 23.—Details of the cyclone in the southwest part of this (Livingston) county on the night of June 20 are at hand. The destruction of buildings, fencing and crops in the track of the storm are beyond description. The storm commenced about 9 o'clock and raged with indescribable fury for two hours. Its general course was from west to east, but nearly all the buildings destroyed were thrown to the south and scattered in that direction. The fields are strewn with household good and debris of all descriptions, and the desolation is appalling. One of the fairest and most fruitful portions of the county was laid waste in those two awful hours. Stately farm-houses were crushed to splinters and swept like chaff before the wind. Men, women, and children, torn and bleeding, lay helpless until assistance arrived. The cyclone seems to have started near the west line of Blue Mound township and to have exhausted itself near the eastern line, a distance of five or six miles. The width of the storm's track varied from one-half to three-fourths of a mile, and was sharply defined all along. Thomas Jenkins' fine barn was totally destroyed, while his residence, a few yards south, was not shaken. Mr. Edward D. James and Mrs. Wilson, wife of J. M. Wilson, were killed outright.

THE INJURED.

John Glick, wife and child; Mrs. Glick dangerously cut about the head; Jack Dusenberry, Mrs. Dusenberry and boys. Mrs. Dusenberry was blown about seventy-five yards, and badly hurt; Mrs. Barrett and child, the former said to be dangerously hurt; Bert Synder, leg crushed, dangerously hurt; tried to get into the cellar, and was dragged for fifty yards under the house; had to be cut out through the floor with an ax; John E. Hughes, wife and child. Hughes was badly hurt, and made totally blind from some unknown cause; Mrs. Morgan Hughes, face bruised and leg injured.

Miss Campbell and Mrs. Butch, slightly hurt. Of those injured, Mrs. Butch, Mrs. Amy Glick, Mrs. Dusenberry, Jack Wilson and Bert Snyder are not expected to live.

There were twenty-four houses destroyed and partly so, involving a loss of about $25,000.

Watterson on the Ohio Convention.

New York, June 23.—Henry Watterson telegraphs from this city to The Courier-Journal that the work of the Ohio Democrats is received here by the Democrats with enthusiasm, and by the Republicans with alarm; that the nomination of Judge Hoadley was not only the wisdom of the moment, but it will prove the logic of the future. Mr. Watterson says: "It may be that we have an easier thing in Ohio than appears, and that we can elect anybody, but I don't believe it." Mr. Watterson then pays a hearty tribute to Judge Hoadley, and to the platform, and predicts success in Ohio for the nominee. The dispatch concludes: "By the way, what was that I heard the other day about the old ticket?"

Depression in Wool.

BOSTON, Mass., June 23.—Many woolen mills are shutting down, and the reduction in the consumption of wool represent over 1,000 sets of cards, which would consume 3,251,000 pounds daily. Some of the mills reported running full time. Many will shut down soon if the dry goods market does not improve. Some mills, however, have increased their production of goods, and are still working full time.

Is Fun Better than Physic?

Fun is excellent; a hearty laugh is known the whole world over to be a health promoter; but fun does not fill the bill when a man needs physic, on the other hand people take too much physic. They would be more healthy, live longer and enjoy life thoroughly if they used Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which cures all blood disorders, indigestion, kidney and liver troubles, removes pimples, and is a perfect tonic. Can be taken by the most delicate. Only 50 cents per bottle, of Stearns & Baker.

An Excellent Report.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE,

But Bad Enough as it Is---Explosion in a Rolling Mill---Two Men Badly Hurt and a Number Slightly.

CHICAGO, June 23.—At 6:30 a. m. yesterday South Chicago was shaken by an explosion, which occurred in blast furnace 5 of the rolling mills, seriously injuring two men and slightly hurting fifteen or sixteen others. The accident took place just at the time for the change from the night gang to the day gang of workmen, and had it been delayed a few minutes the casualties would doubtless have been more numerous. The night watchman, however, had discovered a short time before the explosion that one of the blast pipes had become clogged and was in a bented condition, and gave timely warning to the men who were coming to work of the impending danger. When the obstruction in the blast pipe was burned out and the steam rushed into it an explosion occurred, and the neck of the furnace bursting open, the entire ladle, consisting of thirty-five or forty tons of molten iron was set free. The steam was forced back through the blast-pipe into the engine-room, where another explosion took place, doing great damage. In fact, there were three or four distinct explosions. Despite the warning given, quite a crowd of men had collected about the furnace, and had no chance to get away before the catastrophe was upon them. Only two, however, were dangerously hurt. Joseph Onions was horribly burned by the molten iron from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet, and will doubtless die. An old man who lately came from the North Chicago mills, and who was employed as a coke-tender, was burned in much the same manner, and is also considered to be fatally hurt. With these two exceptions no serious injuries were received by the men.

Senator Voorhees says the story that Hendricks and McDonald are not on speaking terms is a lie out of whole cloth. He also says the Democrats will surely carry Indiana if the free holders do not capture the national convention in 1884; that Hendricks is not a candidate and no Indiana Democrat wants the "old ticket," that The World and Courier-Journal have no more influence in Indiana than a cross-roads weekly, and that the editors of those papers are about the sum of the strength of free trade in the Democratic party.

An Obstinate City Council.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 23.—The city council met and the members were served with the peremptory mandamus issued by Judge Billings, of the United States court, commanding them to levy a tax sufficient to meet Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines' judgment for $2,000,000. No attention was paid to the mandamus, and no steps were taken to prepare an ordinance providing for the tax levy. It is understood that the council will not do anything in the matter, but will await the further action of the court. The members say they are prepared to go to jail, but will not levy the tax.

If disease has entered the system the only way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood. To this end, as is acknowledged by all medical men, nothing is better adapted than iron. The fault heretofore has been that iron could not be so prepared as to be absolutely harmless to the teeth. This difficulty has been overcome by the Brown Chemical Company, of Baltimore, Md., who offer their Brown Iron Bitters as a faultless iron preparation, a positive cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, kidney troubles, etc.

Mr. James Websadel, HOWARD GROVE, Wis., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters cured me when I seemed to be wasting away with consumption."

Mr. John Abt, EDWARDS, Wis., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of inflammatory rheumatism."

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and conscientiously selected and compounded, and that they have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in precisely the same way that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skillful physician—by what they accomplish, and by the testimony of those who have used them. The reputation of a patent medicine is sustained by exactly the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation. * * * Many of those medicines came out of the regular practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians. * * * Very few of them, we believe are humbugs and frauds in the consciousness or the intent of their makers. * * * The people, who are necessarily the judges, both of doctors and of medicines, say that these medicines are not all frauds, and if human testimony is good for anything, that fact is established. —Scribner's Monthly.

His Soul and His Silver.

"Your asking me how I came to use it, reminds me of the story of the Scotchman who, on his deathbed, after a life of meanness, wanted to make things all right with the Lord by leaving some money to kirk."

"Wid the Almighty pass me into heaven if I give 10,000 pounds to the kirk, d'ye think, said he?"

"I can't promise ye that, mon," answered the minister, "but I advise ye to try the experiment."

"That's what I did with PARKER'S TONIC; I tried the experiment. It more than met my expectations, and I am very glad to testify to its excellence. It goes at once to the root of all digestive and nervous derangements so common among men of my profession. For women and chronic invalids the Tonic is a perfect invigorant and is designed to supplant all other remedies for this purpose. A single dose produces the gentle perspiration and sense of life, which eradicates disease. It seems to rouse every organ into activity. I admire it, too, for its power to antagonize the hold of the liquor habit over inebriates."

This preparation which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC will hereafter be called PARKER'S TONIC. As unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers with inferior articles under the name of ginger, and as ginger is really an unimportant flavoring ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There will be no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles in the hands of dealers wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC contain the genuine medicine if the fac-simile signature of HISCOX & CO. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

A Monkey and Dog Time.

Moore had a big fighting stump-tail bull dog by the name of Rattler, and one day a little Italian came along with an organ and a monkey, and as the crowd gathered around, he asked the man if his monkey could fight. "Oh, yes; he fight," said the Italian. "Will he fight a dog?" said Moore. "Oh, yes, he fight dog—he whip dog quick," said the Italian. Moore pulled out a five dollar bill, and said, "I'll bet you this that I've got a dog he can't whip." The little fellow covered it with another five, and the money was handed over to a stakeholder, and they went through to the back yard, followed by half the folks in the little town. There lay the dog on the grass asleep, and at the word the Italian tossed the monkey upon him. In less than a jiffey the little brute had his teeth and his claws fastened like a vise in the stump of that dog's tail and was screeching like a hyena. The dog gave but one astonished look behind as he bounded to his feet and made tracks for another country. The monkey held on until Rattler sprang over a ten-rail fence at the back of the garden, when he suddenly quit his hold and sat on the top rail and watched the dog's flight with a chatter of perfect satisfaction and danced along the rail with delight. The crowd was convulsed. They laughed and roared and hollered tumultuously, all but old man Moore, whose voice could be heard above all others as he stood upon the fence and shouted: "Here, Rattler; here, here! Here, Rattler, here! Here, Rattler, here!" But Rattler wouldn't hear. Rattler rattled on and on, across field after field, until he got to the woods and was gone from human sight. The little Italian shouldered his monkey affectionately, and walking up to Moore said: "Your dog not well to-day; may be your dog gone off to hunt rabbeet. Your dog no like my monkey—he not acquaint. May be ven I come again next year he come back and fight some more. Ven you look for him to come back?" Moore gave up the wager, but he asserted solemnly that Rattler would have whipped the fight if he hadn't have run, "The surprise, gentlemen, the surprise was what done it," said he, "for that dog has whipped wild cats and a bear and a she wolf and every dog in ten miles of Watkinsville." And all that evening and away in the night and early next morning an inviting mournful voice could be heard at the back of the garden calling "Rattler, here, Rattler here," and three days after a man brought Rattler home, but he had lost his integrity, and never could be induced to fight anythign more.—Bill Arp, in Atlanta Constitution.

Chills, Their Causes and Consequences.

Catarrhs should receive careful consideration, instead of the neglect which they generally meet with until they hav fastened on the part affected so much as to excite the attention, and perhaps alarm, of the sufferer. Here, however, we propose to say a few words about the causes of chills. A person in good health, with fair play, easily resists cold. But when the health flags a little, and liberties are taken with the stomach or the nervous system, a chill is easily taken, and according to the weak spot of the individual, assumes the form of a cold, or pneumonia, or, it may be, jaundice. Of all causes of "cold," probably fatigue is one of the most efficient. A jaded man coming home at night from a long day's work, a growing youth losing two hours' sleep over evening parties two or three times a week, or a young lady heavily "doing the season," young children at this festive season overfed and with a short allowance of sleep, are common instances of the victims of "cold." Luxury is favorable to chill taking; very hot rooms, soft chairs, feather beds, create a sensitiveness that leads to catarrhs. It is not, after all, the "cold" that is so much to be feared as the antecedent conditions that give the attack a chance of doing harm. Some of the worst "colds" happen to to those who do not leave their house or even their bed, and those who are most invulnerable are often those who are most exposed to temperature, and who by good sleep, cold bathing and regular habits preserve the tone of their nervous system and circulation. Probably many chills are contracted at night or at the fag end of the day, when tired people get the equilibrium of their circulation disturbed by either overheated sitting rooms or underheated bedrooms and beds. This is especially the case with elderly people. In such cases the mischief is not always done instantaneously, or in a single night. It often takes place insidiously, extending over days or even weeks. It thus appears that "taking cold" is not by any means a simple result of a lower temperature, but depends largely on personal conditions and habits, affecting especially the nervous and muscular energy of the body.—Lancet.

The Bride of the Sea.

At one time Venice had a population of 200,000, and controlled the entire coast of the Adriatic, with important naval stations everywhere, and was one of the first military powers of Europe, but the discoveries of the Portugese gave them the trade of the East: internal dissensions and corruptions weakened the Republic; one by one its possessions were wrested from it, until finally the Prince became the pauper, and the beautiful city has ever since been a football for other nations to play with. It has been the property of Italy, France and Austria—not of its own election, but as treaty results between other powers, until finally Italy has it, in whose hands it will remain till another general war makes necessary a reconstruction of the map of Europe and a new distribution of territory.

Amsterdam and Rotterdam are cities of canals, but not as Venice is. In the Holland cities there are beautiful streets, and wide, spacious streets, with sidewalks and gardens in front of the houses, and all that, the canals being used entirely for heavy traffic.

In Venice the canals are the public highways, there being nothing like streets. There are 1,500 so-called streets, but they are nothing but passages. There are hundreds of "streets" in Venice that are not three feet in width, the widest in the city being only 17 feet in width, and that only 175 yards long. The shops front on these passages, but at the rear is a canal and another front constructed precisely like the first, and the better classes visiting these places always come by the water way.

The houses rise out of the water, the "front steps" being in the water. You step out of gondolas instead of cabs. The shops along these passages are narrow, shallow dens, in which the sun's rays may penetrate an hour or such a matter each day, when it is exactly right, but most of the time it is necessary to light them artificially. They are all very small, all packed with goods stored in apparently inextricable confusion, but the shopmen seem to know where to find what they want quick enough for all practical purposes. But how any amount of business can be done in them passes comprehension.

Everywhere on the poorer of the narrow streets are shops in which eatables are sold, a fish of some sort, stewed in loud-smelling oil, and a peculiar sort of ground meat, in nasty-looking masses being the favorite articles which all the people, with very small copper coins, buy and consume standing. They are not proud, the Venetians. They are willing to eat their greasy food on their feet in the open street. The main point with them is to get food of any kind to eat.

The islands, or rather island, is intersected by one grand canal, which is two miles in length and 100 feet in width, and is the Broadway of Venice. On this canal are all the palaces of the nobility and of the Jew bankers, who have taken the place of the old nobility and rule Venice in a much better way.—D. R. Locke, in Toledo Blade.

Frictional Electricity.

We looked into the press room of one of Boston's large printing establishments this week. The foreman was furious and the proprietor sorrowful. Frictional electricity in the printed sheets of paper as they left the press was the immediate cause of their trouble. It is an interesting and not uncommon phenomena, and is not easily explained nor easily controlled. It has puzzled Professors Bell and Wadman and the best electricians we have about here. The packing upon the press cylinder seems to act as an inductor; and the paper leaves the press thoroughly electrified. We watched a press running off 1,600 per hour. Suddenly the printed sheet clung about the cylinder as though pasted upon it, and had to be torn off in strips. Again, we lifted a few freshly printed leaves, and they ripped and crackled like the stitches in an old coat. Then we saw a lot of cardboard being printed. The sheets were stuck together as solid as a brick and could not be separated until the electricity had partly passed off. A piece of printer's brass rule placed in this pile of cardboard, with an end projecting, threw off sparks when approached within an inch by another piece of rule. Two sheets sucked together when held fourteen inches apart. Wet rags, placed around the delivery table and led into a bucket of water, charged the water with electricity in forty minutes so that a positive shock was felt upon a hand being immersed in the pail. Electrical currents were felt in the hands and arms upon handling a pile of paper eight minutes after being printed. The bother to the printer is a considerable one, It entails inconvenience and a serious loss. Valuable work is frequently spoiled by the electricity packing the leaves so closely as to offset the fresh ink. Then the presses have to be slow speeded, with frequent stoppages. Nothing so demoralizes the press-room as the mystery of frictional electricity when under full headway.—Paper Trade World.

A Veteran Soldier.

Mr. G. F. Bowles, of No. 24 Common street Lynn, Mass., says:

"While in the army, at the battle of Spottsylvania, I fell while getting over a rail fence and was badly injured and left for dead, but after a time I was picked up by comrades; and upon examination it was found that my back was badly hurt and my kidneys seriously injured and I have suffered the most excruciating pain since, and could obtain no relief although treated by several physicians, and I had given up all hope of getting help when I was recommended to use Hunt's Remedy. I purchased several bottles at one of our drug stores in Lynn, and began to use it as directed, and can now attend to business and am free from the pains I formerly had; and I wish to say to my friends and comrades that Hunt's Remedy will do all that is claimed for it, and worthy of all praise. You can use my testimony when you have occasion to, as I most heartily recommend it to all that have kidney or liver troubles."

April 20, 1883.

"You May Use My Name."

I desire to inform you what your valuable medicine has done for me. I was induced to try it by a member of our family, "who had been benefited by its use." I have suffered terribly from kidney difficulties. At times I have been very bad, having severe pains in my back, with general loss of strength and vitality.

My urine was very bad, with a heavy sediment of brick-dust, which was fast leading to gravel. I commenced using Hunt's Remedy, with a marked improvement from the start; the pains left, the urine became more natural, and I can truly say one bottle effected a permanent cure.

I have recommended it to many persons both here and in Boston, all of which speak of it with the highest praise.

You are at liberty to use this letter or my name in any manner you may think best, that other sufferers may learn the value of the greatest of all remedies. Most truly yours,
JOHN F. FOX,

DR. FISHBLATT

OF THE

Medical and Surgical

INSTITUTE

Late Lecturer and Professor in one of the leading medical colleges in the United States, editor of the New York Medical and Surgical Journal, consulting physician and operative surgeon in the New York Hospital for Chronic Diseases, Physician in Chief of the Medical and Surgical Institute of Cedar Rapids.

ON ACCOUNT OF HIS

Immense Practice

IN

Janesville, Wis.,

WILL MAKE HIS NEXT VISIT AT THE

MYERS HOUSE,

Wednesday, August 29th.

And Remain Two Days,

When he can be consulted on

Deformities, Spinal and Chronic Diseases.

Dr. Fishblatt

Has discovered the greatest cure in the world for weakness of the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, paleness of sight or giddiness, diseases of the throat, nose or skin, affections of the liver, lungs stomach, or bowels,—those terrible disorders arising from solitary practice more fatal to their victims than the songs of the sirens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible.

YOUNG MEN.

Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, who might, if otherwise, entrance listening senates with the thunder of their eloquence, or wake to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness (loss of procreation power, impotency,) nervous debility or any other disqualifications speedily relieved. He who places himself under the care of Dr. Fishblatt may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

Organic WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This affliction—which renders life a burden and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victim of improper indulgence. Young persons are apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands this subject will deny that procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both mind and body arise. The system becomes deranged, the physical and mental functions weakened, loss of procreative power, nervous irritability dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, constitutional debility, wasting of the frame, cough, consumption and death.

A Cure Warranted.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders who keep them trifling month after month, taking poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately.

Dr. Fishblatt

Graduated at one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known: many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at certain sounds, with frequent blushing, attended somewhat with derangement of the mind, were cured immediately.

Particular Notice.

Dr. F. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruins both mind and body, unfitting them for business, study, society, marriage. These are some of the sad, melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, namely: Weakness in the back and limbs, pain in the head, dimness of sight, loss of musical power, palpitation of the heart, dyspepsia, nervous irritability, derangement of the digestive functions, debility consumption, etc.

Chronic Diseases.

A Special Study for Years.

:o:

Dr. F. B. BREWER,

Has made Chronic Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Heart, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Nerves and Blood.

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successfully chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do, who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively, and has had his many years of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in opinions and reasonable in his charges. Those who are afflicted are invited to call, investigate and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing to do so. Address all letters to Briefletts.

—Good demand for ice.

—Attend the roller-skating rink this evening.

—There was no criminal business in the municipal court to-day.

—Remember the attractions at the roller skating rink this evening. There will be fun for all who attend, and Mr. Macan will make all welcome.

—Several parties who take a deep interest in the appearance of the parks, have requested the newspaper men to "pitch in"—and help mow the grass on the east division of court house park.

—The carpenters commenced putting on the second floor joists of Mr. Jackman's new building on Main street today. The building will be enclosed in a couple of weeks—provided good weather prevails.

—The show-windows of Scott & Co. on West Milwaukee street, catch the eyes of all pedestrians going that way. They show extreme good taste in the manner of displaying goods, etc. etc. The west window is a real beauty.

—There will be preaching in German in the Sunday school room of the Court Street Methodist church to-morrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, by the pastor of the German Methodist church, of Fort Atkinson. All are cordially invited.

—Captain J. W. Greeley, of Racine, is in the city to-day, in consultation with the committee, of which he is a member, appointed to locate the camp of the first regiment. The committee have decided to hold the camp in this city provided the necessary funds are raised.

—The common council will hold a regular meeting on Monday evening, at which Mrs. Julia Concannon has been cited to appear and show cause why her license should not be revoked. There will be a quorum—unless a tornado strikes the city before that time.

—The insurance agency of Messrs. Dimock & Hayner have written nearly one hundred thousand dollars worth of tornado policies since the recent blow downs in this section of the county, while other agencies have been doing a like good business in this line of insurance. The people will have protection.

—The "dead lock" reversable carrier and elevator, a description of which was given in the Gazette a few weeks ago, has passed through the patent office all right and Messrs. Strickler, Miles & Co., of this city, have received their patent on the same. The machine is the simplest and the best in the market, and we hope the patentees will reap the reward its merits demand.

—Last evening the hook and ladder boys struck the west side fire bell several taps for the purpose of calling the members to the house in order to arrange for the Chicago trip. This is the first time in a number of years that the fire bells have been struck for any occasion except fire, and many supposed that there was a fire somewhere, the telephone being frequently used at the engine house to answer questions and inform citizens that all was right.

—Twenty members of the Janesville fire department, under the leadership of Assistant Engineers James Foster and Thomas Mahon, left last evening for Chicago, to "take in" the railway exposition. They will return home to-morrow, via Afton, on the 1:20 train. They were furnished passes by the Northwestern company, and are under obligations to that company, as well as to Ald. C. A. Potter, and Chief Engineer Croft, for their kindness.

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Clark, on Locust street, fourth ward, was the scene of a large and happy gathering of young people, last evening, the occasion being the meeting of the young people's guild, of the Baptist church. The gathering was a profitable one to all concerned, and several new members were admitted. An interesting programme was arranged and harmoniously executed consisting of music, vocal and instrumental, recitations and and charades. A bounteous supply of refreshments added to the evenings enjoyment.

—The thousands of friends of Mr. Wheeler S. Bowen, formerly city editor of the Gazette, but now one of the editors and proprietors of the Yankton Press and Dakotain, will be greatly pleased at learning that he has been appointed postmaster at Yankton, an office, we believe of the same grade as the Janesville office. We have seen Mr. Bowen in a good many trying positions, and he invariably filled the bill, so to speak, and was not found lacking. That he will fill his new position with honor to himself, and the people of Yankton we have not the least doubt. We take this occasion to again extend our hearty congratulations to Mr. Bowen for his good luck, and assure him that his thousands of friends in Southern Wisconsin are equally well pleased.

Amusements for the Fourth.

The fact that Mr. B. H. Baldwin is at the head of the committee on amusements for the Fourth of July celebration is a sufficient guarantee that the "boys" will have some fun, and rich fun at that. We understand that it is the intention of this committee to assign each member a certain duty in arranging the amusements, so that each will have something specially to superintend. Mr. Baldwin, we understand, will have charge of the Calithumpian brigade. The other specialties have not been announced. The amusement committee consists of Messrs. B. H. Baldwin, Al. Bartliff, J. B. Green, S. C. Cobb, and Fred Sonneborn.

The Grave Robbers.

Of all classes of people the professional grave robbers are the most despised. He robs us of our dear friends for a few dollars. How different is this new grave robber, Dr. Bigelow's Positive Cure, which robs graves of thousands of consumptives. This unequaled remedy for coughs, colds and consumption, whooping cough croup and all throat and lung diseases, subdues and conquers these troubles speedily, safely and thoroughly. Trial bottles free, of Stearns & Baker.

Fourth of July.

All members of the several committees appointed to make arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth of July, are requested to meet in the common council room this evening, at eight o'clock, for consultation with the general committee.
Per order W. T. VANKIRK,
Chairman.

Railway Changes.

Changes of one kind and another are constantly being made upon the Madison division of the Chicago & Northwestern, and in order to keep track of them one has to be constantly on the alert. The latest metamorphosis which is announced is the transfer of Mr. John Montgomery, who has been train master at division headquarters at Baraboo for some time, to Madison, where he will act as trainmaster of the Northwestern lines between Milwaukee, Lancaster, Galena and Woodman. The order of transfer took effect last Monday, but Mr. Montgomery, owing to the pressure of business in Baraboo, has not thus far been able to assume his position here and his duties temporarily are being performed by Train-dispatchers Fred Pearson and F. E. Cary. Mr. George F. Wentworth, who has been train-master at this point has been transferred to Baraboo and promoted to the position of train master of the Madison division lines between Belvidere, Galesville and Winona. Mr. Montgomery was for many years a passenger conductor on the Madison division of the Northwestern road and has always been considered a very trustworthy railroad man. About two years ago he was promoted to the position of train dispatcher of the Madison division and for some time performed the duties of the responsible position, but finally of his own free will went back upon the road again, where he seemed to be more at home.

Conductor John Zeininger, who has been a passenger conductor on the new Northwestern line to Milwaukee since its construction, has received a deserved promotion, and goes to Baraboo as train dispatcher. While the traveling public will be pleased to note the rise of Mr. Zeininger, it will regret to lose so affable and accommodating a conductor. His absence from the day-train between Madison and Milwaukee will be very noticeable to those who have occasion to travel frequently over the line. Conductor M. V. Dustin will take Mr. Zeininger's position on the Milwaukee train.

Mr. Fred Pearson and Mr. F. E. Cary still continue as the two train-dispatchers at Madison, and it is hoped that they will not meet with a transfer, unless it is accompanied by a compensating promotion—Madison Journal.

Miss Jennie Dutton, Chicago's best soprano, who takes the place of Miss H. Louise Warner, disabled by sickness, and Mr. Edmond Decelle, the favorite tenor, accompanied by Mr. Adolph Bauer, an accomplished pianist. A VALUABLE INVENTION.

BARON LIEBIG, recognized everywhere as the world's greatest chemist, says: "I consider this valuable invention as one of the most useful gifts which science has made to mankind."

Sentiment in the Star Route Jury.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—There was probably a good deal of sentiment in the escape of Dorsey and Brady unearthed from the star route trial. Foreman John H. Crane, emphatically the leading spirit of that body, said to a press correspondent: "The fact is, the conviction of ex-Senator Dorsey would have been infamous. He did as much as any man in the United States to put the present administration in power, and yet during the recent trial the administration used all its power to put him in the penitentiary. The administration even went so far as to employ a notorious Democrat—a Catholic Democrat—the lawyer who defended John H. Surratt, and who was in sympathy with the rebellion, to assist in crushing Dorsey and bringing ruin and disgrace upon his family. Even if he had been guilty, the government showed malice in adopting such extraordinary means to secure his conviction, and I am free to say this fact worked up a good deal of sympathy among the jurors. It was an unjustifiable procedure to employ such a man as Merrick to prosecute such a man as Dorsey."

Landslide in New Hampshire.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., June 23.—One of the most wonderful landslides ever known in the White mountains occurred on Flume mountain, Laconia Notch. The results are plainly visible from the flume house. A great mass of water rushing through the flume carried immense rocks into the Pemigewasset river, half a mile away. It is reported that the immense bowlder, which has been the great attraction at Franconia flume, fell, blocking up the entire passageway. Other reports say that a landslide of nearly 100 acres occurred, filling the flume completely.

Strangled Her Babe.

CLEVELAND, June 23.—Coroner Isom rendered a verdict in the inquest held over the remains of a child found in a satchel floating in the Cuyahoga river, and found that the child had come to its death by being strangled and smothered to death by its mother, a German servant girl named Lizzie Schnact. At the inquest the girl made a statement, in which she admitted having tied a cord around the infant's throat and strangled it to death. She was locked up to await trial.

Mill Swept Away.

GRAND BAY, Wis., June 23.—Blake & James' mill, Depere, has been swept away by the water. At the time of the occurrence there were on the approach leading from the bridge to the mill a man named Al Isabel and two young men named Frank Miller and Will Southerland. The latter, aged fourteen years, was carried down and buried in the debris. Miller and Isabel both had narrow escapes, the former being pretty severely jammed.

Served Him Right.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Patrick McKeever, a steerage passenger on the State of Pennsylvania, was found to be so terribly scalded about the head and face that he had to be taken to the Emigrant's hospital, where he will probably die. A few days ago he attempted to commit an outrageous assault on a young female passenger, and the woman, in desperation, dashed a pot of boiling water over the ruffian's head.

Here we are Again.

MADISON, Wis., June 23.—A real live sea serpent ten feet long was captured in lake Mendota yesterday. Great excitement.

DURBIN WARD.

A Remarkable Speech by a Defeated Candidate.

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—One of the most prominent sensational features of the Democratic state convention was the speech of Gen. Durbin Ward, who was called immediately after Headley had spoken accepting the nomination. Gen. Ward spoke with great emotion. The announcement of his candidacy for the United States senate was received with great enthusiasm by his followers, and with surprise by his opponents. He said:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION: I am extremely grateful to my friends for the gallant fight they have made for my nomination. For more than thirty years I have stood firm by the cause of Democracy in a hopeless county and a hopeless district, and always called on to lead a forlorn hope when victory was impossible. And now at the end of a long life, when I ask to be made governor, you have chosen to prefer another. The voice of the Democracy to me is law [applause], and when you have chosen to nominate for governor of the state a man who has not rendered you a tenth part of the service that I have, I bow in acquiescence, and I shall take the stump with whatever power I have to bring victory to the banner of the Democracy this fall. [Applause.]

Gentlemen, it has not been the usage of a Democratic convention heretofore to call upon the defeated candidate for governor to make his appearance before the convention. You call for the successful candidate, but you leave the disappointed man without coming before you to exhibit his grief or complain of his wrongs. You have chosen to alter the rule in this case: you have chosen to call me here, to muster me out of the service at the end of thirty years series of "Senator Ward," and applause.]

Gentlemen, I regret extremely that you call me here now. It reminds me that when after I had fought for years in the field, and was wounded so that you see that lame arm has to lie at my back, they attempted to muster me out of the service. I went to Washington City and mustered myself in again, and continued to fight in the field through several campaigns; and so I tell you now, gentlemen, I am to say what I didn't desire to say; I am to say what you have compelled me to say, being called to this position I refuse to be mustered out of service [applause]; and I say to you that as you have chosen to prefer another for governor, you have left no other place for me in the state of Ohio but senator in congress [cheers]; and I therefore openly proclaim myself here, whatever may be the result, as a candidate for United States senator for Ohio. [Long continued applause.]

I did not desire to say all this, and besought the committee that called upon me not to bring me here, that I would say that which might be disagreeable to them and to the convention; but I desire to say, gentlemen, that I am too much of a Napoleon to give up a battle because I happen to be a loser. [Applause.] Let me add one word more, and then I close. [Cries of "Go on."] I shall use not one dollar to procure my nomination to the senate of the United States. [Applause.] I shall appeal to the strong, hard, horse sense of the Democracy of this state, and I will say to them, as they refuse me the lower places, I now ask that one, and if I get it I say to you now that I shall favor the doctrine that to the Democrats who win the victory belong the honors. [Loud applause.] One word more and then I close [cries of "Go on," "Go on,"] and that word is one of justification to myself. Not one man in this state has done the work in thirty years that I have done that has not at some time been recognized by a nomination for governor or a nomination for senator?

The first you have not given me, and now in my older age I will keep on and die in my tracks. Had I been recognized before, had I been allowed to take subordinate places, had I been allowed to have some reward for the work I have done, I would not complain that those of greater talent, and perhaps greater services, should take the reward, but when I have received nothing thus far, I come boldly forward in my old age and ask for the last honor that I shall ever ask from the American people. I thank you for your attention and will close.
